American Fliers Start Japan-to-Seattle Flight

PAIR ATTEMPTING 4,465-MILE HOP FOR $25,000 PRIZE

Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, of California, Seek Non-Stop Passage Over Hazardous Route Across Stormy North Pacific.

REAL DISTINCTION REWARD OF SUCCESS

Californians Using "Hoo-Doo" Plane for Attempt at Hazardous Feat Yet Unaccomplished.

SAMUSHIRO, Japan, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Beginning one of the most hazardous flights known to aviators, Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California pilots, left the beach runway here at 5:30 a. m. today (3:30 p. m. E. S. T. Monday) on a non-stop journey of 4,465 miles over the stormy North Pacific to Seattle, Wash.

At 6:40 a. m. (4:40 p. m. E. S. T. Monday) the Obishiki radio station reported the plane had passed Point Gormo, Hokkaido island of Japan. The fliers had flown approximately 110 miles in 70 minutes.

"The monoplane carried gasoline for 72 hours of flying, but no radio, to inform the world of progress in the little-traveled area over which they flew."

The course lay along the Japanese island of Hokkaido, skirted the volcanic Kurile islands of Japan after hidden by fog, and swung over the north Pacific in a great circle, then touched the Bering sea and curved across the Aleutian Islands and southward over the Gulf of Alaska and off the British Columbia coast to Seattle.

The weather was reported as "favorable" but with frequent and dense fogs. It was clear here and a storm had moderated over the Seattle-bound plane.

At noon today the airman should have been somewhere east of Paramushiro Island, if they maintained their expected speed of 100 miles an hour. It was calculated they passed the Ketoi Island region, where the Charles Lindberghs spent two nights recently, about 10:30 a. m. (8:30 p. m. Monday, E. S. T.).

The Obishiki radio station at Nemuro, which was in communication today with several flying vessels at various points along the Kurile Islands, decided Moyle and Allen had taken a more easterly course, as none of the fishermen up to noon had reported sighting the Seattle-bound plane.

Moyle calculated the flight would require 38 to 44 hours, depending on the weather. He said he and Allen expected to arrive in Seattle possibly

Hotel Man Is Killed Resisting Dry Arrest

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—James Settimio, 40, proprietor of the Delaware House here, was shot to death today by Calvin Gory, county detective, who fought his arrest on a dry law violation charge.

Gory was disarmed by Justice of the Peace Harry R. Brewer and ordered held pending an investigation. District Attorney Ira A. LaBar said Settimio's hotel was raided two weeks ago. Settimio had been sought since the raid, he said, and when Gory attempted to place him under arrest today the hotel man resisted.

A scuffle ensued, LaBar said, and when Gory tried to handcuff Settimio the detective's pistol was accidentally discharged.

Justice of the Peace Brewer said Settimio ran from the hotel as Gory entered and the detective pursued him, firing two shots. Settimio fled back into the hotel, witnesses said, and the detective followed. The third and fatal shot was fired in the kitchen, Brewer said.

AIRPLANES BREAK CHILEAN REVOLT

Mutinous Sailors Surrender After Bombardment of Army Aircraft.

BY HAROLD P. BRAMAN.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The last ships of the Chilean rebel fleet surrendered today and are on their way to the government base at Port Tongoy, the government announced tonight.

The announcement said that the loyal officers aboard the battleship La Torre and the cruiser O'Higgins, the last two ships to hold out in the rebellion, had been released from confinement aboard the vessels and had resumed command.

The government's verbal announcement said the surrender came after representations were made to the rebels that there was no chance for the mutiny to succeed. No written statement was issued tonight, however, and it was said that none would be until the rebels were safely ashore and confined.

The officers had been held under arrest by the rebels since the beginning of the rebellion.

Five destroyers steamed into Port Tongoy at dawn and formally submitted to the government and to the remaining rebel ships, which had not yet surrendered.

In yesterday's brief bombardment many of the bombs struck close to the ship and several hits were made. As machine guns opened up from the plane upon the rebels the men began leaping into the water and the submarine gave in quickly. None of the ships returned the fire from the planes.

A government account of the engagements yesterday said there were seven destroyers off Coquimbo, five submarines, one transport, four monitors and the O'Higgins and the La Torre, carrying all together 2,730 men.

While the air attack was going on a detachment of rebels attempted to disembark at Port Tongoy for an attack on the vation base at Ovalle, but were repulsed by the civil guards which had been stationed there for such an emergency.

King George Will Slash Income By $250,000 to Aid Economic Move

BY P. H. MYRING.
LONDON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—King George announced tonight in a letter to Prime Minister MacDonald that he wanted a reduction of 500,000 pounds sterling (about $250,000) annually. This is theoretically income paid by the government to the crown.

The Prince of Wales also informed the prime minister that he intended to contribute $50,000 to national funds.

The king said all other members of the royal family who receive parliamentary grants desired cuts in their

COTTON SESSION DATE TO BE FIXED BY RUSSELL TODAY

Eyes of South on Texas, Where Lawmakers Will Meet To Decide Farmers' Status.

Whether three-fourths of the cotton-growing area of the south is going to ban production of cotton next year, or agree to a 50 per cent curtailment of the normal crop, will turn today upon the Lone Star state as the general assembly of Texas meets in an extraordinary session. Before the Texas lawmakers meet in Austin, Governor Russell, here in Atlanta, is expected to issue a proclamation convening the Georgia general assembly for the same purpose.

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, was ready Monday to make an airplane trip to Austin to address both a joint session of the Texas assembly and a mass meeting of Panhandle farmers. Governor Huey P. Long, whose state of Louisiana already has passed a "no-cotton-in-1932" law, also was invited and was expected to accept.

What Governor Russell will support to the Georgia lawmakers, who have been adjourned less than a month, remained shrouded in doubt. The Georgia chief executive was at Windsor Monday looking at his own cotton fields and said that he would make no statement other than to say he would issue a call Tuesday, until back in his office.

Crisis Up to Assembly. In view of the situation in Texas, however, and in view of the non-cotton attitude of the governors of North Carolina and Alabama, one of which states must be brought into the picture before the Long plan can be effective, it seemed probable that Governor Russell would put "a cotton crisis" up to the assembly and let the members fight out what plan to adopt.

Talmadge, in a radio talk before leaving Atlanta, branded the 50 per cent reduction plan as "an indirect way to defeat the cotton ban in 1932."

"If it were constitutional, it would not be effective if it should be enacted into law. Why? Because each farmer would pick out the very best acres that he had to plant in cotton. He would fertilize it heavily and work it better for having a smaller acreage."

With this being done, every farmer knows with good seasons as much cotton could be made on the 50 per cent reduction as was made the year before.

Talmadge, in his radio talk, replied to criticisms of the Long plan recently made by Representative William H. Key, of Jasper, and by President W. Cecil Neill, of the state senate. He asked both Key and Neill to talk to the cotton farmers in their respective counties before making any further "cotton statements."

Other Action Expected. With Texas waiting on Texas to pass either the 50 per cent curtailment or the Long no-cotton plan, it appeared certain Monday that Governor Ibra C. Blackwood, South Carolina, would call the legislature of that state into extraordinary session, and that Governor Harvey Parnell, of Arkansas, would follow suit.

Governor Blackwood said Monday he was waiting to determine the sentiment of legislators, but that "in any event" he intended to convene the session "not later than next Tuesday," meaning September 15.

Long, in a statement issued at New Orleans, said that Mississippi, Wisconsin, and the other states of the Carolinas, Alabama and Arkansas would fall in line with his plan. He did not name Georgia.

One more crisis in Georgia Monday favored the Long plan. In a mass meeting of farmers from all sections of the county, held at Washington, Monday, both a special session of the general assembly and the Long plan were endorsed.

American Slain Trying To Flee Cuban Prison

ISLE OF PINES, Cuba, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Malvin McLaughlin, an American serving a life term for murder, was shot and killed by guards early today when he tried to escape from the national penitentiary.

McLaughlin came to Cuba from New York city 15 years ago and in 1926 was sentenced to life imprisonment for killing an American whose name was John Nordland.

Chief Beavers Applauded

The popularity of Chief Beavers was demonstrated all along the line of march when spectators broke into cheers at sight of the veteran police executive, during the afternoon parade, which was directed by the police committee.

Streets of Atlanta were gay with flags and bunting, and the decorated floats added vivid flashes of color to the parade. Bright red city fire trucks, bedecked with flags and led by equally vermilion cars of the assistant chiefs, attracted the admiring attention of the younger generation. A circus day note was added by peddlers of multi-colored balloons.

Fireworks at Lakewood park Monday night preceded opening of the pavilion dance floor, where an orchestra ground out the latest hits and the younger set of labor trod the light fantastic while their elders, tired out

Nation's Leaders Face Issue Of Winter's Unemployment In Addresses on Labor Day

Problems Confronting U. S. Working Masses Discussed As Factory and Farm Turn To Observance of Holiday.

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—American laborers were on parade today with factories and farms throughout the nation stilled in their honor for the fiftieth time in half a century.

While marching men and blaring bands proclaimed Labor Day in communities throughout the land, their spokesmen used the occasion to stress the ills they face in the approaching winter's unemployment.

The nation's millions marked the day with recreation, and with thoughts of the unprecedented relief organizations the more fortunate are getting and must support.

From Secretary Doak came a note of optimism: He told a crowd at Johnson City, Tenn., that "before long" the nation would be again on "the substantial plane of prosperity."

While William Green, the stocky Ohio miner, who is president of the American Federation of Labor, voiced abhorrence of "a dole, regardless of any guise under which it is bestowed," the national committee for the unemployed, headed by Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, the former secretary of labor, considered the world situation, at a county fair in Pennsylvania, as a trades union congress of great Britain, outlined a campaign against the nationalist government that succeeded labor control.

"Our nation has been weathering the greatest industrial storm in the history of the world," Davis said, "in far better manner than any other."

Here, between the capital and the White House, broad Pennsylvania avenue was filled for almost three hours with a firemen's parade which Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, watched and praised.

With apparatus, old and new, firemen from 10 states swung along between sidewalks jammed to the buildings. They came from New York and Ohio, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and South Carolina, West Virginia, and

PARADE FEATURES LABOR'S HOLIDAY

Work Thrust Aside as Workingmen Seek Diversion; Lakewood Crowded

With drudging work and dull care thrust aside for the nonce, labor put in its eight hours Monday, not at the forge and anvil, but in having a good time and celebrating the right of man to earn a living by the sweat of his brow.

Atlanta's organized workers marched under a terrific sky through downtown streets during the morning, and in the afternoon cooled off at Lakewood park, where a program included water and land races and all the thrills that go with a picnic.

Police and firemen had a comparatively quiet day. Several fire calls, including two false alarms, caused the fire department a little activity while policemen made few arrests and reported but one minor accident with no one injured.

Officials of Lakewood said that the attendance exceeded all previous records. The city was practically deserted during the afternoon, between the Lakewood picnic and excursions to the country, and only those workers who served at emergency and necessary jobs remained in the city.

Public buildings and nearly all offices and stores were closed.

Banners Attack Tyranny. Reference to the strike of the electrical workers against the Georgia Power Company was made in a number of banners borne by the marchers. The banners declared that "We were forced to strike against the tyranny of the power trust," and urged Atlanta to establish a municipally-owned power plant.

The column moved between big crowds from Capitol Square along Mitchell Whitehall to Peachtree, then to Baker, where it turned into Spring street and disbanded. Chief of Police James L. Beavers led the parade, which was headed by a band.

MARKET LOSSES OF PASTOR BARED; PISTOL IS FOUND

Minister, Accused of Slaying Son, Revealed as Trader; Weapon Sent to Macon Chief.

MACON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Chief of Police Ben T. Watkins tonight said investigation being made here into the slaying of Ralston G. Williams, sailor son of the Rev. J. N. Williams, pastor of a Rochelle, Ga., Methodist church, had shown three or more things which "probably will link the pastor with the crime."

Williams is in custody on a warrant charging him with taking his son's life.

Chief of Police Watkins said a neighbor of the preacher has given officers a pistol alleged to have been the same one Williams borrowed before taking a trip sometime before the death of his son. The pistol is the same caliber as the bullets taken from the body of the sailor, which was found August 5 on a road near Augusta.

The pistol is the same caliber as the bullets taken from the body of the sailor, which was found August 5 on a road near Augusta.

Investigation of records of local stock and cotton brokers revealed, officers said, that the preacher had lost heavily in market transactions. Examination also was being made of the bank account of Williams in search of a deposit of $2,500, which officers said was a large sum of money collected by the father as insurance.

Officers also revealed tonight that foot and automobile tire prints near the scene the slaying correspond to the tires on the preacher's car and also with shoes worn by him.

Detectives added that they had learned that $500 insurance had been collected by Williams following the destruction by fire of an automobile he owned.

At the time of his arrest Sunday, Williams denied knowledge of the manner in which his son died. Williams is pastor of four churches. He was previously in to Pitts, Ga., where he was to preach, when he was arrested.

THREE-WAY INQUIRY LAUNCHED AT AUGUSTA. A three-way investigation was under way here today as officers questioned Ralston G. Williams, Methodist preacher, following his arrest in connection with the investigation of the slaying of his son, Ralston G. Williams, a sailor.

The probe included an examination of the pastor's bank account and a search for the widow and baby of the slain man, who officers were told, live in Kittery, Maine.

Mr. Williams was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Henry Tarzan, Augusta private detective, a short time before the pastor was to have left Rochelle, Ga., to go to Pitts, Ga., to preach, officers said.

Mr. Williams denied any knowledge of the manner in which his son met his death.

Sheriff Whittle, who has directed the investigation, said officers were examining the pastor's bank account in search of a deposit of $2,500 which the sheriff said represents money collected as insurance by the father.

Mr. Williams was found shot to death on the highway about four miles from here on August 5. Two days later he was to have returned to active duty in the army.

Sheriff Whittle said today that tire prints and footprints found near the scene of the slaying corresponded to the tires on the pastor's automobile and also with shoes worn by him.

Information to the effect that the slain sailor's wife and baby were living near Kittery, Maine, was developed here yesterday. The pastor told officers he was not acquainted with his son's wife.

Accused by Woman

Dr. William A. Shelton, former Atlanta professor and more recently pastor of a Washington (D. C.) Methodist church, will face a church trial following undisclosed charges brought against him by Miss Carrie A. Williams, his former secretary.

COMMITTEE FIGHT WAGED FOR PLAN TO INCREASE RATE

Finance Board Seeks To Have Date for Vote Set for October 21; Committee To Scrutinize School Board Expenditures.

COUNCIL REFUSES TO OUST GAINES

Lyle Motion Is Turned Down; Plan To Oppose Work-Without-Pay Plan Also Voted Adversely.

Council Monday afternoon refused to ask Atlanta voters to permit a 25 per cent raise in water rates to supplement school department funds and ordered the schools committee of council to begin a sweeping probe of expenditures of the Atlanta board of education.

Alderman G. Everett Millican was author of the paper which placed council on record as opposing a city-wide referendum on a water rate increase for the benefit of schools, and succeeded in forcing his measure through despite a counter-measure offered by the finance committee to set the referendum date for October 21.

Alderman James E. Bowen, of the fifth ward, and Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth, were co-authors of the paper ordering the probe of school expenditures.

The measure, which would have held the spotlight in the council during the afternoon, with the following matters as other features of the session:

1. Passage of an ordinance forcing the board of education to comply with city ordinances requiring all employees to live within the city limits.

Gaines Ouster Defeated. 2. Refusal of the council to oust W. W. Gaines, president of the board, on the premises that he is holding the post illegally because he serves as a member of the council board of registrars.

Defeat of a proposal by Councilman J. W. Weaver to initiate suits against members of the board of education for alleged illegal expenditures.

4. Tabling of a motion to place per to place council on record as opposing an administration proposal that all city employees work a month without pay in order to assist in weathering a fiscal emergency. Deficits were estimated Monday afternoon by J. Charles Murphy, chairman of the finance committee of council, at $700,000.

5. Resignation of E. L. Barnes, veteran chief deputy clerk, was accepted and Alderman Alvin Hicks was named as chairman of a special committee to draw resolutions of regret. Barnes has served for 32 years and under.

Cone Pay Hike Asked. 6. Reference to the finance committee of a proposal to increase the salary of Recorder John L. Cone from $3,600 a year to $4,200. This was done after a determined fight was made to pass the paper without consideration of the committee because the majority of the members already had signed it.

8. Unanimous vote of confidence was given the police committee of council in its efforts to replace Chief

90,000 Children in Atlanta Area Return to School Rooms Today

School bells will ring again today for about 90,000 children in Atlanta and Fulton and adjacent counties as portals of the various schools will swing wide for the new term.

Everything was in readiness Monday for the start, and although there are sufficient funds to run Atlanta schools only through September 15, the announced policy of Mayor James L. Key to operate schools as long as he does other departments probably will extend that time.

The financial crisis is nearing, however, and some move must be made within the short time to insure operation of the system. There is a deficit of $901,000 for the remainder of the year, according to Thomas Clift, new business manager.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, and other administrative officials have announced that they are ready for the opening.

Fulton county schools will open at 8:30 o'clock this morning with more than 14,500 students in attendance. A total of 12,500 enrolled Friday, and Superintendent Jere A. Wells said that he expects an additional 2,000 to report this morning. There is a slight increase in high school enrollment this year, he said.

The fact that the imprint of the tires of his automobile was found at the spot where the body of his slain son was discovered some time ago is believed by Richmond county officials to be one of their strongest clues against the Rev. CLOSED MACON BANK WILL PAY DIVIDEND

MACON, Ga., Sept. 7.—(P)—George L. Blossom, liquidating agent for the Merchants & Mechanics bank, announced today that a 10 per cent dividend, amounting to $17,848.94, will be payable Tuesday.

The announcement came as a Labor Day present to 593 remaining depositors of the bank, most of whom are workers. Checks dated September 8 will be placed in the mail Monday night.

The dividend is the third paid by the bank since it was taken over by the state banking department August 29, 1930. A dividend of 20 per cent was paid last October, and a second for 5 per cent was declared just before Christmas.

At the same time, it was learned that a 5 per cent dividend will be paid by the Fourth National bank some time during the latter part of this month, bringing the total of its dividends to 80 per cent. Checks for about $325,000, made out to more than 10,000 depositors, were sent to Washington Saturday for signatures.

OPENING IS PLANNED BY GORDON COLLEGE

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 7.—Gordon College in Barnesville will open tomorrow morning with capacity enrollment.

Colonel J. E. Gillebeau, president, announces that every room in the dormitory has been filled, and there are several additional students.

The buildings have been thoroughly renovated during the summer, and everything is in readiness for opening. Formal exercises will be held in the auditorium September 14.

The grammar school will also open Tuesday, with more than 500 pupils.

Mr. R. P. Collier, and several other members of the faculty have attended summer school this year at Emory and the University of Georgia.

FOUR NEGROES HELD IN HARRELL SHOOTING

RAINBOW, Ga., Sept. 7.—(P)—Four negroes were held here today for questioning in the shooting and attempted hold-up late Saturday night of Harry Harrell, local flour store manager, and his family.

Sheriff W. J. Catledge did not say who the negroes were. He said no charges had been preferred against them.

Harrell, his wife and young son were accosted by three bandits as they drove into the yard of their home. Sheriff Catledge said the men began firing at the same time they commanded Harrell to hold up their hands. When Harrell stepped out of the car they fled, and one of the men lost his cap in the flight. One of the Harrells was seriously hurt.

Harrell said he was not certain the robbers were negroes.

MAN KILLED BY AUTO NEAR CARTERSVILLE

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 7.—An unidentified white man, apparently 60 years of age, was instantly killed when struck by an automobile on the Dixie Highway five miles south of Cartersville Monday afternoon.

The automobile was driven by a negro who gave his name as Nelson Bueston, of Opelika, Ala. In the car were five other negroes, all of whom claimed to be engaged in construction work near Columbus where the party was en route at the time of the accident.

Sheriff George W. Gaddis, of Bartow county, investigated the accident and is holding Bueston in the county jail here. The body was carried to Acworth and is being held at the undertaking parlors of J. F. Collins & Sons, pending identification.

Spalding Resident, 101, Is Dead at Son's Home

GRIFFIN, Ga., Sept. 7.—(P)—William V. Garner, 101, one of the oldest residents of Spalding county, died at the home of his son here yesterday.

Mr. Garner was born in Kansas January 13, 1830, and came to this section while a young man. During the War Between the States he served with Company G of the Forty-fifth Georgia regiment under General Stonewall Jackson.

He is survived by three daughters, two sons, 12 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. Funeral services were to be held today at the Barnesville Baptist church.

MACON JURY TO GET RESPESS CASE TODAY

MACON, Ga., Sept. 7.—(P)—Charges made by Helen Respass, former federal prohibition informer, that C. A. Thompson, young Macon man, pointed a pistol at her and threatened her life because she "had given evidence against him to enforcement officers" will be given to a jury in the city court of Macon tomorrow.

All evidence in the case was introduced today and Judge Charles H. Hall said he would charge the jury at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

While that case was on trial, another jury returned a verdict finding Thompson guilty of violating the state prohibition law in the possession of a small quantity of whisky on July 11. Judge Hall will impose sentence in the prohibition case tomorrow, he said.

The Respass girl was active in April and May in undercover work for the federal prohibition forces, and as a result of her efforts, more than a dozen cases were made. Thompson was among them, though the evidence today showed the warrant for his arrest was not served until August 20. He was acquitted the day following by Mrs. W. E. Martin, acting United States commissioner.

Charges of assault and battery brought by the Respass girl against R. W. West, Macon attorney, are expected to be aired in court Tuesday. The case was assigned for today, but Solicitor John Y. Roberts did not reach it on the court calendar.

The former government informer charged that Thompson threatened her life while she was waiting for a street car, near her home.

Bibb Interests Acquire Option on Current; Mayor Toole Is Silent.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 7.—(P)—The purchase by local interests of an option on the distribution of power from Crisp county's county-owned hydro-electric plant to Macon, at a rate to local consumers at much less than half the present rate, marks another advance in this city's program of municipal power control.

It was learned here that Albert Adams and associates, of Macon, had obtained the option, good until December 31, 1932. Mr. Adams made no comment here. E. S. Killebrew, chief engineer of the Crisp county plant, said he could not state just what the plans of the Macon group will be. Mayor G. Glen Toole would say nothing "until a definite offer has been made the city."

Mr. Adams was the leader of local interests which sponsored legislation in the recent session of the general assembly, amending the charter of the city to make possible the municipal ownership of power plants and the distribution of power. No offer has, as yet, been proposed to the city.

Gen. Homer C. Parker Rides Legion Donkey

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 7.—(P)—Homer C. Parker, long accustomed to riding the democratic donkey, rode the legion's donkey here today, much to the delight of the Forty Hommes and Eight Cheveaux acting as escort of honor to the congressional nominee.

Mr. Parker was the prize "prisoner" at the "wreck" held by the legion's play organization. A guest of honor also was Lieutenant Governor James O. Sheppard, of South Carolina. After a parade in the morning and the usual street stunts, consisting of enforced stump speeches, menial jobs and the like, an initiation was held at Savannah Beach, followed by a banquet. All candidates were attired in the customary prison stripe garb. The parade was led by the legion's drum and bugle corps.

Georgia Boy Loses Left Hand As Relic of World War Explodes

STATESBORO, Ga., Sept. 7.—A relic of the war which had been used for a toy today cost nine-year-old "J. G." Martin his left hand. The little boy's uncle served overseas with the American forces and on his return brought home as a trophy a giant artillery shell, which has adorned the mantelpiece of the Martin home.

Today the little boy took the shell out on the front porch of the home and began hammering it with a small hammer. After striking it several blows the hammer crashed against the cap and the shell exploded, tearing off the boy's hand.

The projectile rent a large hole in the front of the Martin dwelling and barely missed "J. G.'s" little brother who was also playing on the porch.

LARGER TAX RATE FOR FULTON HINTED

County Commission Meets
Wednesday To Go Into Revenue Question.

Fulton county's 1931 tax rate will be fixed at a special meeting of the county commission at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Walter C. Hendrix, chairman, announced Monday. Members of the board are expected to discuss the necessity for a slight increase, since the county is now required by legislative act to contribute $240,000 a year to the county board of education.

Fulton taxes are due from October 1 to December 15. If the rate is fixed after December 15 and will bear 7 per cent interest. If, on the other hand, the rate is fixed before that date, the county will be required to pay the balance of the year's taxes on or before January 1. The county rate last year was $1 for county purposes.

The county commission has ordered salary cuts amounting to $163,433 a year, effective immediately, and $34,800 effective January 1. The county rate last year was $1 for county purposes.

Eczema of Dry Nature Itched Very Badly. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out in a rash on the back of my head and neck. It was of a dry nature and itched very badly. Sometimes I scratched until it was very sore, and then it burned and pained so that I could not sleep."

"I suffered six months with it before I began your treatment. I sent for free samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief after using them. I purchased more and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed."

Mahatma Gandhi Refuses Briton's Dinner Offer

PORT SAID, Egypt, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi doesn't intend to play the role of a social lion in London, even on his own birthday.

He received a wireless message today from Esmet Brockway, militant socialist champion of India, saying that his English admirers were preparing a birthday party for him on October 2 when the mahatma will be 62 years old.

Gandhi replied: "I don't intend to participate in any social functions in London. Not even a dinner in honor of an old man's birthday."

He said he would not accept the offer of a special school tax and 75 cents as a regular school tax paid by residents outside of the incorporated limits of Atlanta. In addition, there is a state levy of 50 cents.

MACMILLAN BACK FROM LABRADOR

ROCKLAND, Maine, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Commander Donald B. MacMillan returned here by airplane today from Labrador after three months of scientific exploration and work among the eskimos.

He said the most important accomplishment of the expedition was the dental work done among the Indians and Eskimos by Dr. Adelbert Fernald, professor of orthodontic research of the dental department, Harvard University. MacMillan said $10,000 of dental supplies were used and clinics established at Hebron, Nain, Hopeville and Makkook, Labrador.

The explorer said 1,500 square miles of heretofore uncharted terrain along the bleak coast was mapped during the summer.

With revenge definitely settled upon as the motive for the slaying of Wheeler Mangum, co-proprietor of the Model laundry, Thursday night, detectives centered their search Monday upon a negro known to be a relative of a discharged employee of the laundry, in hopes that he can furnish valuable information to aid in the arrest of the slayer. The negro has been missing since the night when Mr. Mangum was found shot through the heart in the offices of the laundry, it is said.

Detectives refused to comment further on the progress of the investigation except to state that the theory of Mr. Mangum's having been shot by a bandit has been discarded.

Resolutions praising the interest taken by Mr. Mangum in the Holmes Institute, negro welfare organization, were adopted Monday by the trustees and faculty of the institution. "His attitude was always that of a friendly, sympathetic, helpful and liberal," the resolutions stated.

GATHERINGS IN GEORGIA TO URGE WORLD PEACE

Attention of Georgians will be drawn to the disarmament conference which convenes in Geneva next February at meetings to be held in Atlanta and Augusta at the suggestion of the Carnegie peace group. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, announced Monday in dispatches from New York.

Many organizations have responded to the proposal that a series of meetings be held throughout the United States on Armistice Day, to focus public opinion on the disarmament conference, it was said. A new and more thorough study of the whole international situation as it affects American prosperity is sought also, it was said.

In addition to the Georgia meetings, arrangements for meetings are now under way in Albany, Ann Arbor, Berkeley, Chicago, Columbia, Denver, Des Moines, Hartford, Houston, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Providence, Richmond, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Tulsa, Washington, Watertown and other cities, according to advices from New York.

HURLEY SAID IN FAVOR OF PHILIPPINE PARLEY

MANILA, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Manila newspapers today quoted Governor Leon Guinto, of Tayabas province, as saying that Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, now visiting the Philippines, favored a round table conference on Philippine affairs similar to the forthcoming meeting in London regarding the status of India.

La Vanguardia represented Hurley as having said, in effect, "I am willing to discuss the question of Philippine problems at a round table conference of representative elements of these islands. In this way both parties, the Filipino people and the American administration, could arrive at an intelligent accord on the question."

FLORIDA TO MATERIALIZE
Ohio Professor's Dream

DELAWARE, Ohio, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Dr. A. R. Mead, of Ohio Wesleyan University, is about to make one of his "dreams" come true.

In a recent book, under the heading "A Short Venture in Utopia," Dr. Mead, head of the department of education at Wesleyan, outlined what he considered would make an ideal laboratory school for a college of education.

The University of Florida invited the doctor to go there and bring his dream to a reality. Today, Wesleyan officials said Dr. Mead had been loaned to the Florida university for the coming college year. In Florida he will organize the laboratory school and plan a $350,000 structure to house it. Wesleyan granted Dr. Mead a leave of absence for a year.

BUTLER SAID SOUGHT

MASSACHUSETTS MAN REPORTED
To Be Slated To Lead
Hoover Campaign.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Boston Post says that former United States Senator William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, has been approached by close friends of President Hoover regarding the chairmanship of the republican national committee during the 1932 campaign. Butler was chairman of the national committee during the administration of Calvin Coolidge, whose campaign he directed.

The Post says that former Senator Butler recently passed a week-end at the Rapidan camp and engaged in discussion of the national political situation. No definite tender of the chairmanship was made at the time but afterward a representative of the president discussed with Butler the possibility of his taking that position, the paper says. Butler, it was reported, recommended the selection of Charles D. Hilles, of New York.

The Post says that significance was attached to the move to enlist Butler because of the sentiment in favor of drafting Coolidge for president. While the Hoover leaders pretend that they are not alarmed over the talk for Coolidge, the paper continues, the fact is nevertheless that it is the one subject monopolizing the attention of the inner councils of the party. Selection of Butler as chairman of the national committee would serve the Post says, to discount the talk of Coolidge.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Former United States Senator William M. Butler declined tonight to make any comment on the published report that he had been approached by close friends of President Hoover regarding the chairmanship of the republican national committee during the 1932 campaign.

He said that he might make a statement tomorrow.

BROWN SHOWS PLIGHT
IN POSTAL DEPARTMENT

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The financial plight of the postoffice department was impressed upon the national convention of letter carriers today by Postmaster-General Brown.

"Approximately $600,000,000 is being expended annually for wages in the postal service at a time when postal revenues have diminished to a figure of roughly $650,000,000, and there is a gross postal deficit to be made up by the taxpayers of $150,000,000," the postmaster-general said.

A five-day week without curtailing compensation, Brown contended, would lead to an artificial increase of commodity prices, diminished market for goods, and lessened need for labor, "adding to our economic difficulties instead of solving them."

Substantial declines in cost of food, clothing and rents, Brown added, had made each dollar of every postal employee worth $1.43 as compared to six years ago when the present salary scale was adopted.

IN POSTAL DEPARTMENT

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The financial plight of the postoffice department was impressed upon the national convention of letter carriers today by Postmaster-General Brown.

"Approximately $600,000,000 is being expended annually for wages in the postal service at a time when postal revenues have diminished to a figure of roughly $650,000,000, and there is a gross postal deficit to be made up by the taxpayers of $150,000,000," the postmaster-general said.

A five-day week without curtailing compensation, Brown contended, would lead to an artificial increase of commodity prices, diminished market for goods, and lessened need for labor, "adding to our economic difficulties instead of solving them."

Substantial declines in cost of food, clothing and rents, Brown added, had made each dollar of every postal employee worth $1.43 as compared to six years ago when the present salary scale was adopted.

MASSACHUSETTS MAN REPORTED
To Be Slated To Lead
Hoover Campaign.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Boston Post says that former United States Senator William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, has been approached by close friends of President Hoover regarding the chairmanship of the republican national committee during the 1932 campaign. Butler was chairman of the national committee during the administration of Calvin Coolidge, whose campaign he directed.

The Post says that former Senator Butler recently passed a week-end at the Rapidan camp and engaged in discussion of the national political situation. No definite tender of the chairmanship was made at the time but afterward a representative of the president discussed with Butler the possibility of his taking that position, the paper says. Butler, it was reported, recommended the selection of Charles D. Hilles, of New York.

The Post says that significance was attached to the move to enlist Butler because of the sentiment in favor of drafting Coolidge for president. While the Hoover leaders pretend that they are not alarmed over the talk for Coolidge, the paper continues, the fact is nevertheless that it is the one subject monopolizing the attention of the inner councils of the party. Selection of Butler as chairman of the national committee would serve the Post says, to discount the talk of Coolidge.

BUTLER DECLINES TO MAKE STATEMENT

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Former United States Senator William M. Butler declined tonight to make any comment on the published report that he had been approached by close friends of President Hoover regarding the chairmanship of the republican national committee during the 1932 campaign.

He said that he might make a statement tomorrow.

$9,000 IS SOUGHT FOR CHURCH MEET

Methodists To Raise Sum for Ecumenical Conference Entertainment.

The executive committee on arrangements for the ecumenical Methodist conference, meeting in Atlanta October 16-25, determined Monday afternoon at a special meeting that Atlanta Methodists should undertake to obtain the sum of $9,000 for the entertainment and expenses of delegates chosen to attend the assembly. Atlanta hotel men have agreed to underwrite expenses of entertaining all overseas delegates, numbering 226.

Robert Strickland Jr., local chairman of the finance committee, spoke of the plan to assign special workers in the various Methodist churches of the city to promote a special campaign during this month to secure the sum desired. Mrs. Betty Peeler, of the convention bureau, representing Fred Houser, chairman of the hotel committee, reported that hotel assignments already had been made for more than 150 overseas delegates. Announcement was made that hotel rates are to be discounted for visitors to the conference in October, and that accommodations can be secured anywhere from $1 a day up.

Definite decision was made that the city auditorium will be used for all evening sessions, while Wesley Memorial auditorium will be used for the morning sessions. Afternoon departmental study groups will use Trinity, First, St. Mark and Ponce de Leon Avenue Methodist church buildings for their meetings.

Bishop William A. Fountain, chairman of the negro committee, stated that plans have been adopted for all negro delegates to be entertained in the homes of people of the denominations they may represent. Colored visitors will be cared for in the colored Y. M. C. A. and at the James hotel. Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, director of the Emory Glee Club, chairman of the local music committee, stated that arrangements are being made for all the organists and choirs of the city Methodist churches to take part in the conference music program. "Heaven Bound," the musical pageant rendered by the Big Bethel choir, is to be given by that choir on Friday evening, October 23, as the choir's contribution to the entertainment of the conference members. A small admission charge will be asked of visitors and others, to assist the colored churches in defraying their part of the conference expenses.

Bishop John M. Moore, general chairman of the local committee of one hundred, presided over the Monday meeting, which was attended by the following: Dr. John S. Jenkins, vice chairman, and chairman of organization committee; Dr. Wallace Rogers, secretary; John A. Manget, chairman of house committee; Dr. S. T. Senter, Robert M. Strickland, finance; Rev. J. E. Ellis, pastor of Wesley Memorial church; W. C. Royer, publicity; Dr. E. F. Dempsey, of the Wesleyan Advocate; Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, music; R. B. Nixon, program; Dr. R. L. Russell, Arthur L. Brooke, transportation; Dr. S. H. C. Burgin, pulpit supply; Dr. H. W. Cox, Miss Addie Gilbert, office; Mrs. Betty Peeler, representing the convention bureau; Dr. W. E. Craig, pastor of Ponce de Leon Avenue Methodist church; Dr. Thomas M. Elliott, secular publicity; Bishop W. A. Fountain, negro Methodists, and Dr. B. G. Dawson, pastor of Big Bethel church.

MISSISSIPPIANS SEEK REVIVAL OF SCHOOLS

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 7.—(P)—Outstanding educators and officials-elect of the incoming state government met here tonight in a closed session to decide upon procedure to gain reinstatement of four state colleges and secondary schools for allied political interference.

The meeting was called at the suggestion of W. F. Bond, state superintendent of public education, who has been active in the movement to regain the lost accredited status of the schools.

Samuels Named.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Arthur H. Samuels has been appointed editor of Harper's Bazaar by John Randolph Hearst, president of Harper's Bazaar, Inc. He succeeds Charles Hanson Towne. Mr. Samuels was formerly associate editor of The New Yorker and more recently editor of Home and Field.

BIG NEGRO CHORUS TO SING TONIGHT

One thousand negro singers, comprising the National Baptist Convention chorus, will appear tonight at the city auditorium under the direction of George Garner, well-known tenor. Reserved seats for white persons may be obtained at the Cable Piano Company, for negroes, at the Citizens Trust Company.

The Atlanta Baptist Ministers Union Monday endorsed Dr. L. K. Williams, of Chicago, for president, and Dr. James M. Mabitt, for recording secretary. Two hundred and fifty delegates to the convention have already arrived in the city and been assigned to homes, according to Dr. L. A. Pinkston, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Vets To Elect.

The Colored American Disabled Veterans' Association will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at 220 Herndon building, 239 Auburn avenue. All members are urged to be present to elect officers.

PHYSICIAN WOUNDED, SON-IN-LAW IS HELD

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—(P)—A shooting in the residence of Dr. Dominick A. Estrada, 78 year old veterinarian, late today resulted in the severe wounding of the doctor and the arrest of his son-in-law, Phil Brick Moore, 32, who said he was a ship captain.

Police were told that Moore broke into the residence of the doctor in an effort to see his wife, the daughter of Dr. Estrada, from whom he had been estranged for some time.

"Man Without Country" Regains a Nationality

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 7.—(P)—Peter Russell, "a man without a country," who has been shuttling back and forth across the Atlantic since June, seems to have found a haven of refuge at last. British and American immigration authorities declined to permit him to enter either country while they debated his nationality. When he arrived here today in the steamer Artigas, he learned that he had been proved to be a Scotsman and was at liberty to go anywhere in Great Britain. He headed for Fife, where his home is.

NEW YORKER WINS BRIDGE CHAMPIONSHIP

DEAL, N. J., Sept. 7.—(P)—William S. Karn, of New York, today was declared the individual contract bridge champion of the United States when he outscored 25 invited players, all present or former holders of national bridge championships. Karn's score at the end of three-day tournament was 278 1-2 match points. By his victory Karn won his own trophy, for it was he who donated a gold cup to be presented to the winner of the tournament.

Bryan Grant Outlasts French Veteran To Win at Forest Hills

JACKET VARSITY SQUAD NAMED ON FIRST DAY

BRYAN GRANT BEATS BRUGNON IN TITLE MEET

Bell Upsets Allison as Sutter, Perry, Vines Doeg Advance.

By Gayle Talbot,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7.

P—A couple of stubborn little tennis players from the south came along just before dark today to toss a couple of monkey wrenches into the well regulated machinery of the national singles tournament at Forest Hills.

Berkeley Bell, the 130-pounder from Dallas, Texas, and Bryan Grant Jr., the tireless little gamster from Atlanta, who weighs perhaps 120 pounds wringing wet, were the pair who lifted the second round out of its doze.

Bell, who gave in for such things, provided the first upset of a seeded star by eliminating his old University of Texas teammate, William Allison, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Grant followed him 10 minutes later with a hard-earned triumph over Jacques Brugnon, French Davis cup veteran, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Up to that time things had been running along too smoothly, if anything, the seeded players parading monotonously into the third round.

John Doe, the defending champion, had something of a brush before he subdued Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, in five sets but the others were able to take things in their stride.

BRILLIANT TENNIS.

Bell, who scored a similar spectacular victory over Jean Borotra, of France, in the opening round a year ago, played some of the most brilliant tennis of his career in downing Allison.

Grant's victory over Brugnon, fourth seeded foreigner, was less spectacular than that of Bell, but equally decisive. The little Atlanta roadrunner covered every foot of the court and battled back at Brugnon until the Frenchman was dizzy. No matter how hard Jacques played, no matter how hard he always met it sailing back. He carried a look of despair before it was over.

In the last three sets Grant gave a remarkable exhibition of court covering and magnificent control and in the opening set the French veteran was collecting so accurately that not even little Grant's amazing agility in getting around his court was sufficient to keep the ball in play.

But the foreign veteran faltered after taking that fiercely fought set and he began to pile up errors. Nothing that was not an outright aceing shot could escape Grant in the last two sets and many times Brugnon appeared dazed by his opponent's recoveries.

HARD SERVICE.

Bell, apparently in better health than in several years, was able to play at top speed all the way, and his match with Allison seldom was in doubt after the first set. It was Bell's first victory over Allison since 1928, and his first over a player of Allison's caliber this year.

The diminutive Texan employed a terrific service, gambling freely on his second ball and scoring numerous aces over the former Davis cup star. Allison, after a good start, grew wild in the second set and had poor control of his group of strokes.

The match almost broke up in a row before the deciding set was played. Allison, annoyed by the noise of the big holiday gallery in the stadium, insisted after the intermission that they retire to a more quiet court outside the arena and was upheld by the officials.

Bell put up a violent argument right before everybody before he consented to the change. He was told he either could play where the tournament fathers decreed or default. The two Texans were extremely hostile during the final set.

A CLOSE SHAVE.

It took Johnny Doe's three sets to settle down and get his best shots working in the high wind, as a result he almost lost his lead before the tournament was well under way.

Jacobs, a former national boxing champion, had the left-handed title holder trailing two sets to one at the intermission and there was a deal of excitement as several thousand fans quit the stands and surrounded the court where they were playing.

Johnny Doe down to take the fourth set at love and the match, 6-4, 1-6, 2-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Outside of Allison and Brugnon the only seeded player to fall by the wayside was Marcel Bernard, a French youngster, who went down before J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 4-6, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3, 8-6.

Frank Shields, Ellsworth Vines, Sidney Wood Jr., George Lott Jr., Clifford Sutter and John Van Ren won about as they pleased, as did also Frederick J. Perry and George P. Hughes, the British pair, Christian Bousquet, of France, second seeded foreigner, had his hands full, however, in disposing of Dr. Lawrence Kurzok, of New York in five sets.

Clubmates Give Auto to Ouimet

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 7.—The Woodland Golf Club officially celebrated the victory of its famous member, Francis Ouimet, today and presented to the new national amateur golf champion a $2,000 automobile, the gift of his clubmates.

Charles Shaw, chairman of the welcoming committee, said in presenting the gift, "It is for our love and admiration for you, Francis, not for your title."

Scenes as Tech and Georgia Started Football Practice for 1931

'SID' WILLIAMS' RETURN CHEERS TECH'S COACHES

New Move Enables Team To Get Earlier Start on Details.

By Ralph McGill.

Within 30 minutes after the squad of 62 Georgia Tech football candidates took the field Monday in the initial practice of the 1931 season, the varsity squad had been selected and work started with the various divisions of linemen, ends and backs.

It was one of the most radical moves in years on the face of things and yet a most wise and carefully prepared one in fact.

Spring practice enabled Tech coaches to determine on a tentative varsity list. It is purely tentative. At any time now may be ended back from the "scrubs" and placed on the varsity squad.

MORE EFFICIENCY.

In making this move Tech coaches displayed a new method of bringing increased efficiency to early practice. Time lost in selecting men, ordinarily about 10 days or two weeks, may now be devoted to drilling the men in conditioning and plays.

Coach Alexander asked that emphasis be placed on the fact that the men on the scrubs were not out of the running. Their work will be watched closer than ever. As a matter of fact, several of them are to be brought back soon unless there is a marked increase in the ability of several men over that shown in spring drills.

Appearance of Sid Williams, promising end and halfback of last season, who was kept out of play by injury, was one of the features of the first day. Williams is apparently fully recovered from an injury which prevented full use of an arm last fall. He is out for a place on the squad.

PLAYERS SMALLER.

The smallness of the 1931 players was apparent as the varsity squad took the first setting-up drills and went through some of the fundamental work of line, end and backfield play.

The "bee" of former years is gone. In its place is a better build, a trimmer, leaner and faster player. There is a distinct new type at the Flats.

The squad was almost entirely made up of strangers as far as the football world is concerned. So many of them are up from the freshmen team of 1930 that the strange faces were in the majority.

There was a new type of player at the Flats and there was a new spirit—a fresher one. That much was evident as the players went to work, as they listened to talks from coaches.

Things looked increasingly bright for the Jacket prospects of 1931. The team is pretty sure to be a faster, harder fighting and more intelligent team than any since the 1925 championship team.

THE COACHES.

The coaching staff was present Monday morning for two exceptions. Bobby Dodd, backfield coach, who recently lost his mother, is not due until today or tomorrow. Henry Robinson, end coach, returns from a vacation later. Head Coach W. A. Alexander gave the squad its induction into the varsity list. Jack Cannon, line coach; Mack Tharpe, end coach; and Kenneth Thrash, backfield coach.

The work Monday was short. Much of it was occupied by lectures, photographs and the remainder was devoted to handling the ball on passes and in some fundamental work on line play for the linemen.

The team will work this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The list of players on the varsity squad follows:

Ends—Lackey, Goldsmith, Spradling, Lewis, Adams, Sid Williams, Casey Jones, Stoum.

Tackles—Gardner, Cain, Brady, Clinan.

Guards—Seldinberg, Warner, Stalmeier, Law.

Centers—Noblett, Farmer, Ezell, Murray, Poole.

Halfbacks—Flowers, W. Davis, Galloway, Barron, Gooding, Ferguson, Vinerick, Platt.

Fullbacks—McCallie, Peterson, Black, Cherry.

Quarterbacks—McArthur, Peeler.

Protector Captures First Circuit Event

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—One of the largest crowds here in years jammed the new fair grounds grandstands today to see Protector, the favorite, win the feature event of the opening day's grand circuit program at the Indiana state fair.

Driven by Caton, Protector captured the Horseman Futurity 3-year-old trot in straight heats, bettering the former record for the event in both trips. His time in the first was 2:02 1-4, three-fourths of a second better than the record.

The old mark was 2:03 1-2. Calumet finished third in the first heat and was distanced in the second. He started in the race for a purse of $8,428.98.

Crackers, Barons Play Here Today

Because of the wrestling matches at Spiller field tonight, the Atlanta Crackers and Birmingham Barons will play the series opener this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Ladies will not be admitted free today, but on tomorrow night, when the Crackers and Barons play again, ladies' night will be observed. The Crackers returned home from Knoxville last night and will be here all week, closing a final series with New Orleans Saturday.

DON RULED OUT OF TROPHY RACE

U. S. Retains Cup When Miss America VIII Finishes Alone.

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—The jinx that has haunted every effort of foreign challengers to recapture the Harmsworth speedboat trophy from the U. S. was eliminated today.

His challenging craft, Miss England II, fastest speedboat in the world, lay at the bottom of the river tonight, having turned over on a curve two miles from the start. Don and his crew escaped unhurt.

As if this ill luck were not enough, it was announced almost as the craft foundered that Don had beaten the starting gun by seven seconds and automatically eliminated himself from further competition in this year's event.

At the same time it was announced that Gar Wood, driving his Miss America IX, also had beaten the gun to be disqualified. Wood led Don across the start, having crossed it two seconds ahead of the British challenger. Wood's second entry in defense of the trophy, Miss America VIII, left alone in the race, finished 30 miles over on its side, came up right and settled down by the stern as it filled with water.

In winning yesterday's heat Don had established a new world's competitive speedboat record and winning $9,913 miles an hour for the 30-mile race and had made one lap at the rate of 33.017 miles an hour.

Don and his two mechanics, Dick Garner and Roy Plattford, received only a severe ducking when their boat turned over. Don and Wood were touring around the lower part of the course, swinging the second turn, with Wood in the lead, when Miss England II got into Miss America IX's wash. It tipped over on its side, came up right and settled down by the stern as it filled with water.

An hour before the race, word came to the judges' stand that Gar Wood had discovered a leak in his gasoline tank and had requested a postponement for 45 minutes. Race officials announced that Don refused the request and that the race would commence with his returning to his boat.

Don again won up 35 gallons of lubricating oil. He said that if Wood had not discovered a leak in his gasoline tank and had requested a postponement, but felt that, with two boats entered against him and one of them in a bad shape, the race should start on time.

Jack Cannon, Tech line coach, had but four veterans to work with Monday when the Jackets began football practice at the Flats. He took one look at the lettermen shown above at the left before turning to his new players. Left to right: Ezell, Neblett and Farmer, centers; Cain, tackle, and Cannon, coach. At the top, right, Jack (The Ripper) Roberts, star Georgia fullback, is shown wearing his headgear and receiving other equipment from Sam Broadnax, of Monroe, Georgia, manager of the 1931 eleven. The smaller photograph, below, shows Harry Mehre, with the football, talking things over with his coaching staff before starting the first workout. ### PREP GRIDDERS SETTLE DOWN

All Teams Practicing as Time for Rough Work Draws Near.

Prep football, forsaking light preliminaries, settled down in grim earnest Monday afternoon with more than 250 athletes busy in various sections of the city.

Tech High, Boys' High, and G. M. A., the big three of Atlanta, drew the majority of spectators and rewarded them with some good work. It was the beginning of the third week for the Smithies, while Boys' High and G. M. A. have advanced to the fourth week.

Russell, Decatur, Fulton, Commercial and Marietta started their first week of intensive work and will settle down to much harder drills during the next few days.

Due to the extreme heat, very little rough work was done on this first day. Tech High devoted a large part of the afternoon to running down under punts and passes and tapered off with a long signal drill.

Boys' High and G. M. A. likewise devoted the afternoon to punting and passing drills.

Coach Gabe Tolbert had a long scrimmage planned for Monday, but it was too hot and the rough work will be on the menu for today or Wednesday instead. The Smithies had two light scrimmages last week.

All of the city schools open this morning and another group of youngsters is expected to report to the various coaches this afternoon for their initial workouts.

Hardwick Carries Dynamite in Right

Roby's arena will be the scene of another top-notch fistic card Wednesday night featuring Lou Hardwick, hard-hitting local boy, against Kid La-Gula, the Porto Rican lightweight, who caught the fans' fancy last week.

Hardwick appeared on the last card here and stopped Kid Tiller in the second round. In doing so he impressed ringsters with the dynamite in his right hand.

It isn't always in the thick of the fight that the thrills come—not always when the stands are roaring and some halfback has the ball flitting down the field.

There was yesterday afternoon for instance—When the golden-clad Yellow Jacket squad came out for the first practice there was a familiar figure running with them.

It was Sid Williams, an end of last season—that is, he was supposed to have been an end.

In the early practice of 1930 Sid Williams tackled a man. His arm felt numb after a while. Later on it lost all feeling. He couldn't lift it above his head.

He had suffered a very rare injury. A nerve in his arm had, in some inexplicable fashion, been severed. In time the nerve ends would send out new growths. Somewhere in the ramifications of the new ends they would meet and contact would be established.

Sid Williams wore an "airplane" splint last season. His arm was kept extended in a brace. I used to watch him as he followed the practice day after day, reaching up now and then to rub that numb arm, and staring at the plays.

The doctors told him last spring that he must teach that arm all over again—must bring back the usefulness of it again, must discover if those new nerve ends had made contact.

Sid Williams spent the summer at the beach. He swam every day. He exercised that arm. He stayed in the sun and in the water.

And yesterday afternoon when the golden-clad figures came running out there was Sid Williams running with them—using that arm—swinging it—throwing passes—catching them.

He'll find out now if the arm is ready for football again. And if you think that wasn't a thrill, then there isn't one.

That was the pull of the game and the force that the game had given Sid Williams. He came back and beat an opponent that many would have surrendered to.

And no matter what halfback slips by a tackle, cuts back

MAULER CLOWNS IN NEVADA RING

Dempsey Goes 5 Rounds With 3 Frightened Heavies at Reno.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 7.—Ten thousand fans today watched Jack Dempsey down through five exhibition rounds with three large, but not overly willing heavyweights.

The former champion toyed with "Cowboy" Eddie Burns, of Davenport, Iowa, for two rounds, knocked out Sammy Baker, of Douglas, Ariz., in one minute and 25 seconds, and then knocked Ted Tingler, of Seattle, Wash., off the canvas no less than six times in their two-round set-to.

Burns drew a flock of blood from Dempsey's mouth in the first round and landed several respectable lefts, but Jack always had the situation well in hand.

The absence of players was amply made up for in the presence of photographers. One could hardly turn without staring into the lens. Rex Enright, who is making a serious effort to reduce, was in "shorts" also and for this reason, tried to stay out of range of the cameramen.

The ten missing players probably will report tomorrow with the first casualties. Their thumbs probably will be sore from thumb-touring across the state.

The other eight protigals who got lost in the Labor Day traffic somewhere in the highways and hedges were Jim Patterson, a guard, who is a life guard in summer at Savannah Beach; Lloyd Gilmore, fullback; Tommy Moran, quarter; Stubby Hammett, another quarter; Jim Stoinoff, fullback; Fred Turberville, sophomore end; Red Peak, tackle, and Simmons, a guard. Gilmore, who hails from Massachusetts, was said to be bringing his violin along, and some was "who got away with it" suggested that maybe Gilmore was fiddling along the way while Harry Mehre was burning down at Sanford field. They let him live.

"PHOTOGRAPHIC DRILL."

"I had intended starting practice Tuesday," said Harry, but I expected that someone would be late so I got off a day early to allow for them. Catfish Smith, like Jimmy Walker, is a notoriously late arrival, and only the great things that Catfish accomplishes after his arrival enables him to get by with it.

The boys who failed to report did not miss an awful lot, however, outside of a chance to get their picture in the papers. The workout was a light one, of course, the usual opening day procedure being in effect. There were calisthenics, instructions, and the customary light exercises.

Chick Shiver, end coach, who has been playing baseball with Toronto in the International League, arrived in time to take the ends off by themselves. Ted Twomey took charge of the other linemen, with Rex Enright taking over the backs. Coach Mehre supervised things and opened the

Atlanta Courses Crowded Monday

As the younger golfers took advantage of their last holiday before the opening of school today, Atlanta's courses were crowded to capacity throughout Monday.

Anslay Park members completed four matches in their annual club championship tournament.

In the championship flight Dan Sage Jr., the medalist, beat Dr. W. A. Garrett, 6-4, and Grady Clay beat R. P. Jarrett, 6-5. In the first flight Parks Hunt beat Howard Fisch, 3-1, and W. G. Shafer beat T. C. Dann, 4-3, in the second flight.

Three Capital City golfers shared first-place honors with The Monday in a blind par handicap tournament. E. G. Williams, Robin Adair and R. E. Baker, with their handicaps deducted, had the same score. Adair had the best gross score of 81.

Gene Black, a southpaw golfer, set the pace on the Capital City course for the holiday crowd with a 74.

IOWAN'S WIFE ADMITS INSURANCE HOAX PLOT

Mate of Former Farmer-Labor Leader Confesses Conspiracy After Man Reweds.

PERRY, Iowa, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The wife of John H. Smith, once farmer-labor candidate for governor of Iowa, today told authorities that she arranged with her husband to collect life insurance through a plot by which he disappeared February 1929, leaving an embalmable body in his burned automobile.

Smith is now in jail at Adel, Iowa, on a charge of bigamy, having been married to a young woman in Kansas during his absence. The appearance of this woman to reveal her romance is thought to have led Mrs. Smith to tell about the plot, which she said included an agreement by Smith to return to her after she collected the insurance.

The body left in the automobile, being partly burned, was buried as that of Smith. It was later exhumed and found to be one procured from some morgue.

Smith could not be found for several months, but once he was almost caught when he tried to meet his wife for a conference on a lonely road, near Perry. Months later, he was found bound and gagged in a road. He told a rambling story of having been kidnapped and held in a shanty. The Kansas woman finally came forward to identify Smith, an insecticide manufacturer, as the man who had married her. Smith admitted the illegal marriage, but made little further comment. He was removed from a psychiatric hospital to a cell while his acts were further investigated.

The young woman, Pauline Shaw, whom Smith was married in Elgin, Kan., March 11, has returned to Kansas.

'UP POPS THE DEVIL' HEADS RIALTO BILL

Rialto theater fans get "Up Pops the Devil" this week. It is a Paramount picture, with a cast that includes, seemingly, most everybody on the Paramount lot who, in secondary roles, have saved picture after picture that so-called stars have brought close to ruin.

There is Carole Lombard, Norman Foster, Sheets Gallagher, Stuart Erwin, Lillian Tishman and ever so many more. And they are all as good as ever.

The story concerns the troubles that arise in matrimony when friend wife becomes the wage earner and hubby stays home to cook the roast, pay the laundryman and hustle out the garbage down the dumb waiter things that happen are plenty but the thing ends as it should with the loving couple reunited and the time not far distant when progeny must be made to welcome a little blessed event.

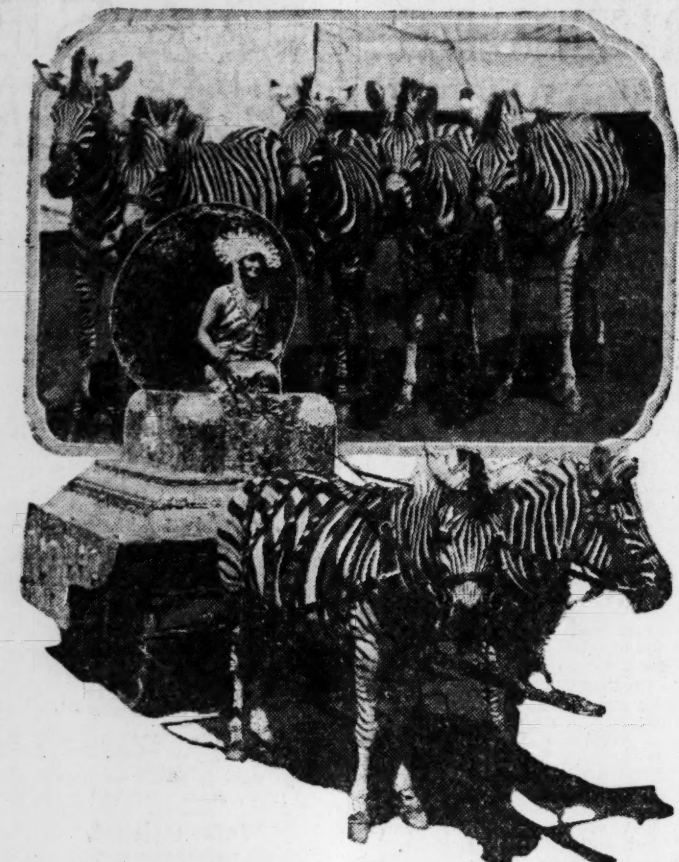

Don't forget, when you see the picture, to watch for Luella, the girl from Virginia. She is a gentle satire on the south and you'll enjoy it, even if you are a native of the former Confederacy.

There is a two-reel comedy alone worth the price of admission, with a pair of comedians who should be welcomed after so many weak imitations have preceded them. They are billed as "Seben Eieben" and they're better than all the M. & M. or A. & A. teams the pictures, the stage and the radio have produced rolled into one.

A new reel completes the bill with, fortunately, some other announcer substituting for Graham McNamee, who must be on vacation. Let's hope it's a good long holiday.

The circus with its assemblage of novel and sensational attractions will give afternoon and night performances when it exhibits in Atlanta Monday, September 14.

Bayles Bests Fast Field in Winning Air Classic With 236-Mile Average

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Lowell Bayles, speed sensation of the 1931 national air races, romped away in a field of eight racers today to win the Thompson trophy with an average speed of 236.230 miles an hour.

Flashing around 10 laps of a 10-mile course, the 31-year-old flyer who hails from Springfield, Mass., but was born and reared in Illinois, was never headed in a thrilling climax to the 10-day air meet witnessed by 80,000 people.

His speed was nearly 35 miles an hour faster than last year's winner, the late Charles (Speed) Holman, whose revamped racer was flown into third place, next to J. R. Wedell, of New Orleans, by Dale "Red" Jackson, St. Louis.

HINES URGES LEGION TO SEEK WIDER FIELD

Veterans' Bureau Head Says
Group Shows Lead in Civic Life.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Administrator Hines, of the veterans' affairs, today told the Kansas state convention of the American Legion that the organization should not only participate but lead in civic and national affairs.

"Any problems which affect the country," said Hines, "should be the Legion's problems, and they should be considered in their entirety in relation to the whole country instead of narrowing our perspective to certain sections of the country or to specific groups of citizens."

Because of its large membership, he said the Legion should demonstrate the principle that service to the country in war or peace "is one of the greatest privileges of citizenship."

BULLDOGS HOLD FIRST PRACTICE

practice period by delivering a lecture to the entire squad.

Quite a few onlookers watched the Bulldogs and there was much clicking of cameras. In fact, Harry Mehre very aptly called the opening workout his photographic drill. Most of the boys reported in good early condition, some bronzed from the outdoors and others carrying a beach tan that made the lay spectators envious. Graham Batchelor, the prospective center, reported weighing 202. Harry doesn't mind the excess weight for this heat will get it off, he figured. Jack "The Ripper" Roberts lost eight pounds in today's workout, the scales revealed.

Rex Enright, kidded some of the boys about having "two vests" but they will need them. Mehre has called a morning workout at 10 o'clock for tomorrow, and another for 4 o'clock. This practice will be followed until school opens September 16. Mehre will employ the forenoon period to rehearse new plays.

MEHRE FEARS V. P. I.
"We've gotta hurry along to get ready for V. P. I.," said Mehre. "They talk about our beating Yale, but a loss to V. P. I. would hurt us more than a loss to Yale, for there's our conference record to think about."

While Harry does not anticipate losing to V. P. I., that team represents something of a mystery. It is said to possess a veteran line with sophomore backs. Sometimes that combination is troublesome, Harry remarked. Then, too, he will have a chance to scout Yale against Maine, but since the Gobblers are his opener, he will not know what to expect.

And just as word here about the left-end post that has been commented on so freely, Harry isn't so sure but that little Weddington Kelly, who weighs a scant 165, is still going to have a hard fight to monopolize that position. Kelly, though light, is a scrapper. His opposition will come largely from sophomores, and, while Wolfson and others are promising, Kelly's experience should weigh heavily in the balance.

Those present today were: Quarterbacks, Paul Hart, Sully Sullivan, Young, Howard; halfbacks, Key, Mott, Dickens, Chandler, Sam Brown, Gaston; fullbacks, Jack Roberts, Conch, White; ends, Miller, Kelly, Wolfson, Crenshaw, Hill, Collier, Maxwell and Bowers; tackles, Townsend, Eckoff, McGrimmon, Hainback, Edgar Cooper, Thorpe and Dudley; guards, Leather, Maddox, Bennett, Hazlehurst, John Brown, Eberhardt, Fuller and Parks; center, McVivier, Batchelor, Dykes, Perkins and Conyers.

tallied four runs. The Robins got to Brandt for two runs each in the third and fourth and won on in the tenth. In the second game, Van Mungo, a 21-year-old right-hander who joined the Robins today from Hartford, shut out the Braves with three hits.

Pittsburgh extended its winning streak to six games by defeating Cincinnati, 6 to 1 and 4 to 2.

Home Runs Hand A's Double Defeat.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A bombardment of five home runs that gave the New York Yankees a 9-to-4 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics in the afternoon game allowed the Yanks to sweep the double-header with the world's champions today. New York won the morning game 15 to 3.

The Yankee bombardment ruined the day for their old teammate, Waite Hoyt. Babe Ruth drove out two of the circuit drives, No. 39 and 40, while Lou Gehrig sent his 42d of the year over the right field wall. The other two were divided between Bill Dickey and Lyn Lary.

Washington took a double-header from the Red Sox, 7 to 5, and 15 to 1. Hadley and Burke pitched the opener and Marberry the second game for the winners.

The Cleveland Indians won a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 2 and 5 to 2.

The Tigers and the St. Louis Browns divided their Labor Day double-header, the Tigers taking the first contest, 3 to 2, but dropping the second, 11 to 7.

for the cup and if he missed he might even have a 3-footer or even a 5-footer back.

It was marvelous work and bold work with his putter that stopped young Howell and then nailed Jack Westland. He kept on rapping the ball for the hole of the cup, even from 20 feet away. He had no thought of merely getting the ball dead. If he could see the cup, then the cup was his target. He sank cruel putts against Billy Howell, one of the sensations of the tournament, and he sank even more cruel putts against Jack Westland every time the Chicago challenger was in the midst of putting on a rally.

And now it would be no upset for Quimet to win more than one other title. He is only 35, in better physical shape than he has been in years and he is still one of the greatest golfers in the game. He was good enough to beat Billy Burke and George Von Elm over 36 holes before he came to Beverly. Like Bobby Jones, he belongs to the bold and attacking side of golf. He is one of the chautaukers, and they usually have the big jump.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Andrews Plan To Celebrate 20th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. Grady Andrews, who were married in 1911, in Jacksonville, Fla., will celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary Monday, September 28, from 5 to 8 o'clock, at their home on Lucile avenue, in West End, and the occasion will assemble their relatives and friends, and will be an important event of this month. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Andrews will be their daughters, Misses Dorothy and Thelma Andrews, and Miss Elizabeth McGough, and their son, Howard Grady Andrews Jr. A musical program will be rendered by Miss Margaret Aiken and Miss Bonnie Ruth Andrews, and Miss Lollie Belle Suttles will render vocal selections. Mrs. Andrews was formerly Miss Geneva Browning, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Perry Browning, of Ellerbe, S. C., her family having lived there for generations. She came to Atlanta 25 years ago to reside with her aunt, Mrs. L. M. Sinclair, who has moved to Los Angeles, Cal. She is a leading figure in civic, religious and philanthropic circles, having organized the Cascade chapter, O. E. S., a year and a half ago, and has been identified with the O. E. S. order for 12 years.

Mrs. Andrews teaches a class composed of 35 girls at Gordon Street Baptist church, and is one of the most prominent members of the church. She belongs to the Baptist Women's Missionary Union, and is identified with parent-teacher work. It was Mrs. Andrews who led the movement for city council to install the whitewash lights on Gordon, Lucile and Inman streets in West End, which were turned on January 9, 1929. Her sisters are Mrs. Nolan B. Williams, of Atlanta; Mrs. Burnett Strick, of South Carolina; Mrs. Lathrisa B. Burton, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Jessie B. Browning, of Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Eunice E. Walters, of San Antonio, Texas, and George W. Browning, of Ellerbe, S. C., are her brothers. Mr. Andrews is connected with the claim department of the Georgia Power Company, and is a member of the Battle Hill Lodge of P. A. M. He is a son of W. H. Andrews, head of the detective agency for the past 34 years, and Mrs. O. B. Andrews and Mrs. Hattie Andrews Aiken are his sisters.

Mrs. McAshan and Miss Gibbs Are Interesting Visitors in Atlanta

Mrs. J. E. McAshan and her granddaughter, Miss Virginia Gibbs, of Houston, Texas, are among the interesting visitors in the city, having arrived here to spend a month at the Georgian Terrace. Mrs. McAshan is a sister of former Senator Hoke Smith and the late Mrs. Frances Smith Whiteside, and is an aunt of Miss Mary Brent Whiteside. Her parents were the late Dr. and Mrs. Hildreth Smith, prominent and beloved pioneer residents of the city, her father having ranked as one of the leading educators of the state and south during his lifetime.

Mrs. McAshan has lived in Houston for 50 years and takes a leading part in social, cultural, educational and patriotic circles of her adopted home. As an influential member of the John McNeill Alexander chapter, D. A. R., she is deeply interested in the conservation and thrift movement sponsored by this patriotic organization. During 1930 Mrs. McAshan, through the Boy Scouts, planted 1,000 trees. Her idea in fostering such a plan is to give impetus to the movement to plant trees along the highways in the south, declaring that France has beautified its highways in this manner, and that the plan is well worth imitating in the United States.

Definite purposes interest Mrs. McAshan, and last winter she undertook the feeding of children reporting at school without having breakfasted. She furnished a cash fund to the school principal, who in turn requested from each teacher the name of the child borrowing from this fund to purchase breakfast in the school kitchen. Through this medium the principal knew the name of every child the fund reached, and the doctrine to pay back the amount borrowed at some future date was instilled in the child, thereby laying the foundation for good citizenship. Mrs. McAshan seeks her own pleasure through reading and the study of altruistic measures, and aside from being the gracious chaperone of her own home in Houston, wherein her grandchildren delight to visit their attractive grandmother, she owns a home on Galveston bay and entertains groups of Boy Scouts there every summer.

Pretty Miss Gibbs, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philip Gibbs, of Huntsville, Texas, is exceedingly charming and possesses an engaging personality, and made her debut in society in Houston during the season of 1929. She attended Wesleyan College, and after completing her education she traveled in Europe, and has also traveled in this country.

Miss Sylvia Hirsch Weds Mr. Kletsky At Quiet Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Sylvia Hirsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Hirsch, to Leon Kletsky, formerly of Pueblo, Colo., but now of Atlanta, was solemnized Sunday evening at the home of the bride's parents on Washington street with the Rabbi Tobias Geffen performing the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and close friends. Prior to the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Annette Geffen and Sam Geffen. "I Love You Truly" was sung preceding the taking of the marriage vows.

Mrs. Jake Hirsch was maid of honor, and the mother of the bride acted as matron of honor. The best man was Harry Kletsky, of Chicago, Ill., brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Hirsch, and was a lovely figure in her wedding gown of brown crepe combined with white satin. Her flowers were a bouquet of Talisman roses and valley lilies. The bride attended Girls' High school. She is vice president of the Junior Hadassah and a popular member of the younger set. The bridegroom is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. David Kletsky, of Pueblo.

Mr. and Mrs. Hirsch entertained at an informal reception following the ceremony. Misses Hesse, Rosalie and Selma Hirsch, sisters of the bride, presided at the punch table. Mr. and Mrs. Kletsky left on a motor trip through Georgia and Alabama and upon their return will be at home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hirsch, at 781 Washington street.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Hirsch, of Columbus, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kletsky, of Chicago, Ill.; Miss Elsie Dennen, of Chicago, Ill.; and Max Hirsch, of Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Weisger Is Honored.

Miss Cook Weds Mr. Mowrer in September in Monroe

MONROE, Ga., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Gladys Durden Cook announces the engagement of her daughter, Willie Mae, to Orval Robert Mowrer, of Baltimore, Md., formerly of Unionville, Mo., the marriage to be solemnized in September. Miss Cook is the elder daughter of Mrs. Cook and the late Benjamin O. Cook, of Monroe. She is descended from the Harrett, Phillips, Durden and Atkinson families, prominently identified with the early development of Virginia and Georgia. She received her education at the Monroe schools and at the University of Georgia and graduated in 1927.

After her graduation Miss Cook returned to the University of Georgia, where she was connected with the psychology department. For the past two years she has been studying at the Johns Hopkins University, from which institution she received the degree of doctor of philosophy the past June. While in college she attained both social and academic honors, having held the office of president of the Pioneer Club, a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Beta Kappa. She was a popular member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Miss Cook, her mother and her sister, Miss Julia Cook, made Athens their home for a number of years until recently, when they returned to Monroe. The bride-elect endeavored herself to a wide circle of friends through her winning personality and her gracious charm. Mr. Mowrer is the son of Mrs. Ann Todd Mowrer and the late John A. Mowrer, of Unionville, Mo. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri and the bridegroom-elect is engaged in research at the Johns Hopkins University. He is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and the honorary scientific society of Sigma Psi.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card AnalystCareful Counting and Clever End Play

No matter how accurate the bidding, the bidding is not the end of Contract. If that were so, the game would soon lose the charm of infinite variety which holds its countless followers in a deathless grip and increases that army of followers every day. Bidding is mental play. It is a prediction of the number of tricks that can be made with the 26 cards held in the combined hands of the partnership. Sometimes the most expert play will not add a single trick to those that can be secured by even a novice. Fortunately, however, for the sustained interest in the game, this is rarely the case. Contract is not, as some people have said, a game of Aces and Kings. It is a game of accurately drawn inferences in the bidding and accurately reached conclusions in the play.

A Bridge lover in Melbourne, Australia, M. M. Phillips, sent me the other day a hand which demonstrated the fact that play in Australia can be just as accurate as in the most expert circles in America.

South dealt and bid one notrump. North bid two spades and South with more than 4 honor-tricks raised the contract to four spades. South could have made game at notrump, but the menace of the poorly guarded clubs and hearts was such as to cause him to believe that game at spades was more probable.

East opened the diamond Queen and the hands of North and South were:

North: Spades K Q J 8 4
Hearts 10 5 2
Diamonds 10 5 2
Clubs K 10 8 5

South: Spades A 6 3
Hearts A 4 3
Diamonds A K 3
Clubs Q 6 3 2

North won the first diamond trick and played three rounds of trumps. Both followed to the first two rounds and on the third round West discarded a diamond. North then led a club from his own hand and the Queen in dummy held the trick. West played the seven. Only one more club trick was required for game, but the fact that West had no more was revealed in the return of the suit and East held A J 9 over North's K 10 8, so that North's only chance was to force East to lead diamonds or clubs to him. East's original opening lead of the Queen of diamonds seemed to place J 9 in his hand, especially in view of West's diamond discard. Apparently, East's remaining cards were: Clubs A J 9, Diamonds J 9 (at least) and two or three hearts. If he had only one heart, West would have held eight. East won the second round of clubs and led a heart which South won with the Ace. The remaining

North and South cards now were:

North: Spades 8 4
Hearts 10 2
Diamonds K 10
Clubs

South: Spades 4 3
Hearts A 3
Diamonds 6 3
Clubs

The heart three was now led from the Dummy. West played low. North ruffed and East played the Knave, probably locating the heart King in his hand. If West held the heart King he would have attempted to take this trick in order to lead up to his partner's diamond holding and establish a trick in that suit. This would make East's original hand consist of four clubs, three spades, three hearts and three diamonds; so North had to readjust himself to this situation and force a lead of clubs up to his hand rather than a lead of diamonds. He, therefore, played a small diamond, won with the Ace, led the last heart from Dummy, ruffed with his last trump and put East in the lead with his last diamond. If North had played a club instead of a diamond at the ninth trick, East could have defeated him by playing his last club before leading his last heart, thus forcing North to lead diamonds to him.

The complete hands were:

North: K Q J 8 4
Hearts 10 5 2
Diamonds 10 5 2
Clubs K 10 8 5

South: A 6 3
Hearts A 4 3
Diamonds A K 3
Clubs Q 6 3 2

Thus, by accurate play North was enabled to make this contract. Less accurate play would have resulted in sure defeat.

TODAY'S POINTER.
It must be borne in mind that the most radical and original feature of the Forcing Takeout is that the Jump does not necessarily show great length or strength in the bid suit, but merely game (or Slam) strength in the hand. Partner therefore must assume a minimum trump suit and support or deny accordingly.

Partner's (Opening bidder's) pre-emptive selection of a response will depend on the nature of his hand.

First: If able, show another bid-able suit.

Second: Rebid own trump suit if it is a strong five-card or a fair six-card suit.

Third: Support partner's Jump suit bid if holding at least Q 3 2 or four small trumps. If holding more than the value of one Raise (after deducting the Opening bid values) jump the full amount of Raises.

Fourth: Jump the notrump re-

A PRACTICAL AND COMFORT-ABLE GARMENT.

7283. Materials in nursery designs, flannel, outing flannel, crepe, crepe de chine, long cloth and madras, as well as pongee and albatross may be used for this model. The garment has a convenient drop back, and may be finished in knee or ankle length. Shaped facings trim the fronts and the neck edge. A small pocket is arranged on the front. The sleeve has fullness at the wrist above a narrow band cuff. As pictured, printed percale was used with facings of white lawn.

Designed in 6 sizes: 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 6-year size in ankle length will require 3-1/4 yards of 27-inch material together with 7-8 yard of contrasting material for facings on fronts, neck, pocket and cuffs. If made in knee length 3-8 yard less of the figured material will be required. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps. Send 12 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date Book of Fashions, Fall 1931.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL
BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

My girl friends are popular with the men and I am not. Here's the difference: they make over the men and I do not. They talk baby talk, lie in their laps, smoke and drink. They will go as far as the men want to go. My elders are always wondering why I don't have dates and go places, like my friends do. They just don't know. It is pretty hard to be referred to as "the frigidaire" and to have to absorb sarcasm on that order. What should a girl do, wait for the man who will appreciate such a girl as I am or conform to the customs? I have a good disposition and I am not a bad sport. I can play the piano, dance and swim and am not bad at bridge.

KIKO.

ANSWER:

First of all, I should get myself some decent girl friends. For the ones who behave as those you describe are not decent. Birds of a feather flock together, birds of both sexes. It's all right to talk about the "girls now-a-days" being lax and allowing liberties that were unheard of in former days. That may be true, but since the world began there have been girls who have lain in men's laps and have drunk and have gone as far as the men wanted to go and they have always been in-merely, but in all fairness they could be.

The girls who engage in such questionable performances "don't belong." They never did and never will so long as decent people love and live and run the world. It doesn't make any difference what the boys say, they don't admire, and they are slow to marry the ones who have been mauled, and treated with rank disrespect; and when they do marry them, they leave them.

It is high time we expressed ourselves fearlessly about these low-bred girls who pass as ladies and behave as shameless huzzies. This is my apostrophe to them.

THE TWITCHTAILS HAVE AN ADVENTURE.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Adventure doth as sure as fate
Around the corner lie in wait.

—Old Mother Nature.

One never knows when one may meet with adventure. Sometimes we seek it, but more often it comes suddenly at the most unexpected places, and in the most unexpected places.

Twitchtail and Mrs. Twitchtail had left their old home on the edge of the wheat field to seek a new home where there would be nothing to remind them of the dreadful thing that had happened to their friends and neighbors and where those two-legged creatures called men would not be likely to try to do them harm.

Mrs. Twitchtail led the way and Twitchtail meekly followed. They turned their backs on the wheat field, the orchard and the wooded hillside they had known all their lives.

Twitchtail grumbled from time to time, but Mrs. Twitchtail paid no attention to him and he followed on, for he had no intention of losing her as well as his home. That first night they spent in a pile of rocks where they felt quite safe. Early the next

DELIGHTFULLY YOUNG AND SMART.

There is something always so attractive about the tailoredness, particularly for early fall for town.

This model also will have special appeal for high school or for college wear.

It has the modish flat neckline and deep flaring cuffs. Inset bands accentuate slowness through the moulded neckline. The skirt displays comfortable flaring fullness.

Sheer woolen prints, canton crepe and flat crepe silk are excellent mediums for this slender model.

Style No. 544 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3-1/8 yards 36-inch material with 1-2 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Our Fall and Winter Fashion Magazine is ready. It contains styles for children, the miss and of course, a most attractive selection for adults including slenderizing effects for stout.

Things are looking VERY GREEN this fall

GREEN has already been approved as a leading color for autumn. There will be a great many coats in that lovely deep, rich forest shade. And green dresses go without saying! There will be green crepes, green satins and those delightful new green sheer woolsens.

This year, accessories must match. And Nisley, recognizing the importance of green, is ready with the right shoes. For town, we have a stunning new three-eyel oxford, with suede vamp and "jacket" of kid. For afternoon, an instep strap of finest glaze kid, with just a touch of decoration in matching reptile calf. Then for really dressy wear, a "half and half" pump, half suede and half glaze leather with a bit of classic decoration.

What shade of stockings go with green shoes? Well, by this time you know that Nisley always has correct colors. New low prices now, too... 75 cents, $1, and $1.25.

The NISLEY policy is this:

To build our own shoes in our own plants for the more than fifty of our own stores.

To sell them, with one profit, directly to you, at a lower price than would otherwise be possible.

To make these shoes of the finest materials possible and to line and finish them with true craftsmanship and authentic style.

Finally, to offer them to you in surroundings that you will find pleasant, courteous and efficient. Why not drop in now... to hear and see what's new for fall.

WHITE FAWN

by Olive Higgins Reo

INSTALLMENT VIII.
She wished she could ask her present partner what time it was. During the supper-dance, she felt sure there would be an opportunity for her to slip away and see Thad. In fact, she had made up her mind she would make an opportunity.

Several times during the evening she had caught her mother's appraising eyes upon her and smile of approval. How flushed and happy she looked! Fabia was glad. But for her mother she would have defied them all to-night. But for her mother—she was suddenly aware of her mother close by. They were dancing shoulder to shoulder.

For a moment Fabia's eyes were on the same level as the buttonhole worn by her mother's partner, and very close to it—several tiny red chrysanthemums, like the ones her mother had broken off a plant on this very spot a few hours before, and drawn into the buttonhole of her red tweed coat.

Fabia glanced up to see who was wearing her mother's red chrysanthemums—or some exactly like them. It was Mr. Firth. Something stirred unpleasantly within Fabia. Thad's accident had temporarily blotted out the memory of all events since she had last stood with her mother before this very mantle. She grasped for a reason for the unpleasant sensation.

Her mother and Mr. Firth, unaware of her proximity, had moved away a little. She glanced at them again, still groping. This was the first dance Fabia and Lisa had ever attended together. Why did it fill Fabia with such distaste to see a man's arm encircling her mother's gold-sheathed slender neck like that? And to observe her mother's acquiescent submission to it? Where before—suddenly it all came falling down upon her like an avalanche! She remembered everything—the conservatory, the davenport, the palms, and, through the fronds, her mother and Mr. Firth before the mantle in the library.

What did it mean? Why was Mr. Firth wearing her mother's flowers? Why had he kissed her mother? Why had she let him? Why—why—oh, why? She was again just where she was before Thad's accident, hurrying along the dark road as if pursued, and again it was Thad who switched her train of thoughts from its goalless clinging.

Fabia was aware that somebody was attempting to cut in before his hand fell on her partner's shoulder. An instant later she felt herself being borne out of the pool as if on a swelling tide into the center of the room. She glanced up to find out what this sudden force sweeping her away looked like. But all she could see was a black shoulder, a section of lean jawbone just above a white collar and an ear, close-set in black hair.

Abruptly, without remark whatsoever, "Where can we go to talk?" her new partner asked. "I think there's more chance right in the middle of the room than anywhere else," Fabia replied.

"I thought so, too. That's why I brought you here. If anybody cuts in before I'm finished, I'll come back again! I want to know about your dog."

"My dog? How did you know?" "A policeman told me, the one up above here in the square. I stopped to ask the way here."

"I don't know how he is," Fabia replied. "But I want to know awful. If you can sleep me over to the door just beyond the sideboard here, I can slip out through the butler's pantry and find out."

A half-minute later, Fabia and her partner had slipped safely through the swinging doors and were standing amidst pyramids of piled-up dishes in the pathway of countless scuttling servants. Fabia backed into a corner.

"Do you mind waiting for me here?" she said. "I shall need you to take me back. I'm supposed not to be finding out about Thad at all till the party is over. My mother asked me not to. Thad is down in the laundry. I won't be gone long."

"I'll come with you." Fabia hesitated a moment; then, "Well, all right," she acquiesced. "If you want to. But I'm afraid—I'm awfully afraid that Thad—" him an anguished look—quick, fleeting as a shooting star. But he saw it. "Was he hurt as badly as that?" he inquired kindly.

Fabia heard the kindness, "I'm afraid so."

"You're fond of him?" She nodded. And again the anguished look shot across her features. What a beautiful girl she was! Her partner didn't know whether it was the anguished look or the lovely face behind it—the shooting star or the sky—that gripped him.

"I'm so fond of him," she said. "I dread to go down and find out how he is, because—"

"Well, then, let's go and get it over quickly," her partner interrupted. "Is this the way?" And, taking the initiative, in a manner of self-confidence and command, he pushed open the swinging door that led into the kitchen.

"Come on," he said, with a nod and an encouraging smile. He had startlingly white teeth, Fabia observed, as she passed beneath his arm that held open the door. He was very dark—swarthy almost—and had brown eyes. At least she thought his eyes were brown. It had been so dark in the laundry she couldn't be sure. But of one thing she was sure—his strength. It had required no light of Fabia to be convinced of his strength.

The only light in the laundry had been one small electric bulb near the tub. Joe, the gardener's assistant, was leaning over Thad when Fabia and her partner entered.

Fabia sank down on the floor beside Thad, the gardener's assistant, in a dress. She leaned over him. He was still alive. His eyes were open, and gazed at her with an expression that filled her with a dawning flood of tenderness and love. He knew her! She was almost sure he knew her! She whispered his name, and laid her hand upon his head.

She had never seen suffering of any kind before. Thad's breathing was very difficult now. His body was twitching, too, in a way that wrenched Fabia. Finally she turned, looked up at Joe, and spoke, her voice tight and taut.

"What did the doctor say?" "That he can't get better, Miss Fabia," Joe replied.

The twitches increased. It became struggling. "Oh, I can't bear to see him suffer! What can we do, Joe? What can we do for him?"

"I know something about dogs," Fabia's partner remarked. She had completely forgotten him. "Will you let me look at him?"

"Oh, do you? Will you?" He knelt down beside Fabia. "Poor little chap," he said to Thad, and placed his two hands gently, firmly, confidently on the struggling body. Then skillfully, and as tenderly as if Thad were a child, he turned him over, and proceeded to explore his sensitive palms and finger-tips receiving hidden signs and signals from within.

Fabia stared fascinated. "I can make it lots easier for the poor little chap," finally the stranger remarked, glancing up.

"Morphine. It will put him to sleep. It's outside in my car. I'll go and get it. (He waits.) Let's see! I believe I slipped it in here," he fumbled in his pocket. "Yes, I did! That's luck!" He held up a small black case. "Shall I?"

"You mean you'll give him so much he'll never wake up?" "Yes. That's what I mean."

"Would you, if he were yours?" "I would," instantly he assured her.

"All right, then. Please do." She replied as instantly. The stranger's hands had instilled in Fabia complete confidence in him.

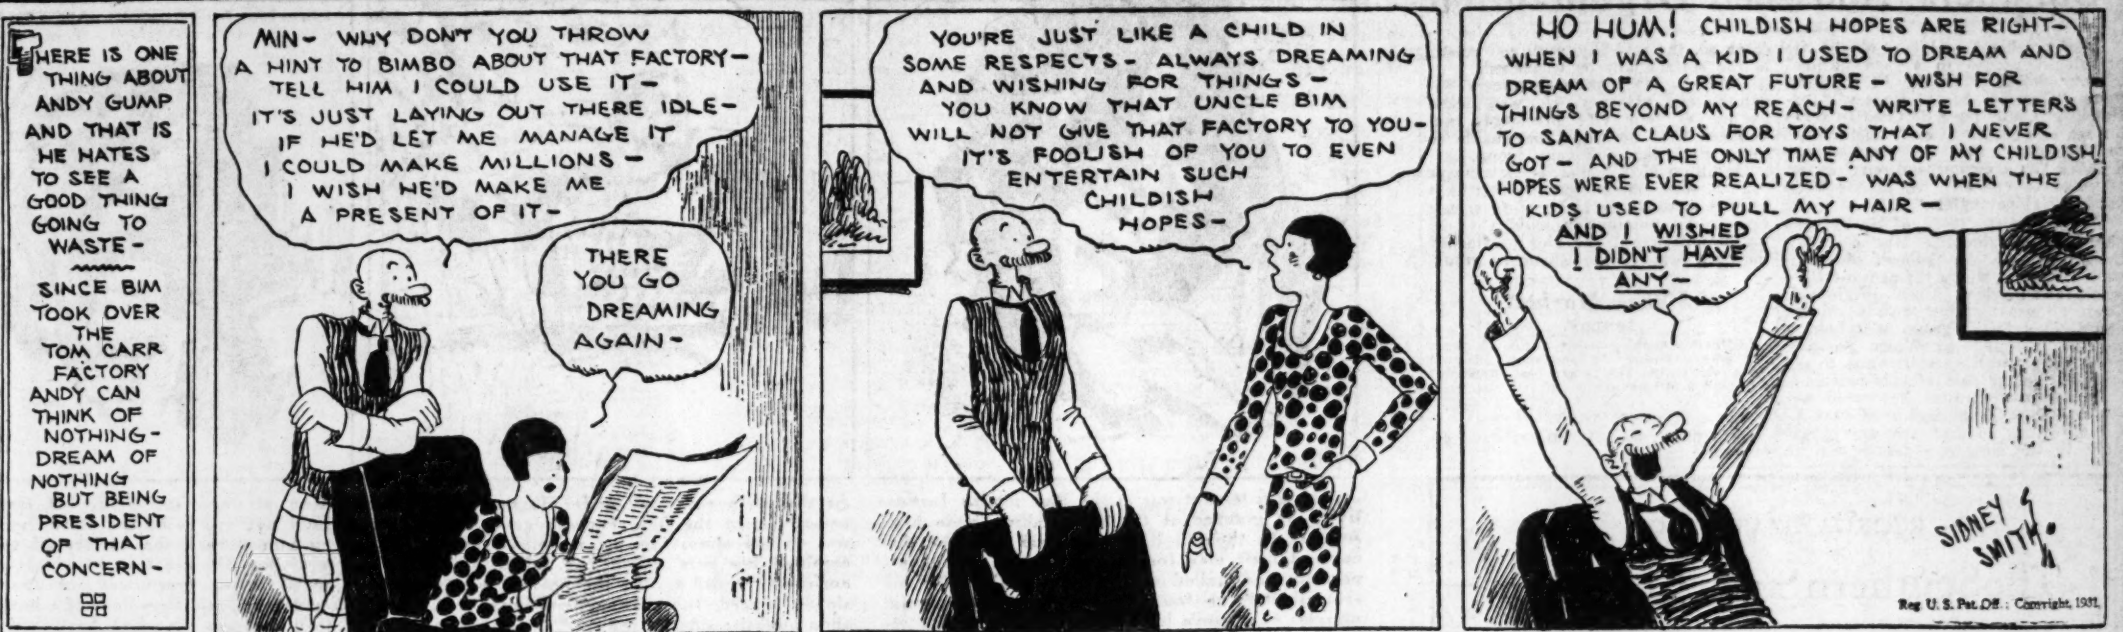

He walked over to the electric bulb by the tubs.

"You don't need to stay," remarked the stranger, still busy near the light. "Joe and I can manage alone all right, and I promise you, I'll be back."

"I'd rather," Fabia interrupted. "Hold his head, so," the stranger instructed. "That's right—firmly against your body, and his leg so splendid! Fine! Now, old chap, we'll ease things up a bit for you," he said to Thad.

Three Officials Decline To Serve Summers' Roosevelt Organization

The president and two of the vice presidents picked in a "convention" of four delegates to the F. B. Summers' "Georgia State Roosevelt-for-President-Club" have declined to serve for reasons described as "satisfactory" to themselves, and the organization, branded "as a commercial one," is not expected to cut any ice in the 1932 presidential campaign.

Mayor G. Glen Toole, of Macon, was named as president of the club, although Dr. R. B. Gilbert, of Meriwether county, where the genuine Roosevelt-for-President Club originated, heads an organization with a similar name. This latter group will hold a meeting, probably at Warm Springs, when Governor Roosevelt comes to the state the latter part of this month.

In announcing that he would not serve, Mayor Toole explained that he did not want to give any encouragement to the Summers group, lest, in

Get the facts— BEFORE YOU START THIS WINTER'S FIRE

Even with a good boiler, adequate radiation, and careful firing a heating system can be inefficient and unsatisfactory if it lacks proper distribution and control. Today these two essential qualities can be in-built at relatively small cost into any steam or vapor heating system, new or old, by converting it to an Improved Webster System. Then every radiator in the house will receive steam at the same time and in the same proportion regardless of its distance from the boiler. . . . And the amount of heat delivered will be governed by a central control which varies the supply to the demands of the weather. Overheating, underheating and fuel waste end.

Get the facts about the possibilities of the Improved Webster System. There is still time to modernize before you light this winter's fire. Phone or write the Webster Branch Office.

The Horse—not the Harness

No. 3 in a Series of Advertisements,
"Seasoned by Time"

IT'S not the harness that pulls the wagon . . . it's the horse. It's not the tanks and turbines, pipes and poles that make a utility system . . . it's the men.

Thirty-three men who are the chief executives of the Associated System average 25 years in service. They were seasoned in the quarter century that saw the phenomenal rise of the electric industry, the rejuvenation of the gas industry, and the development of the holding company that did much to make both these possible.

Mature Management

Seven of this group of 33 have served more than 30 years . . . 28 more than 20 years. There are in addition 283 major executives who have averaged 16 years in System service. These men direct the activities of the 14,600 Associated employees.

Both gas and electricity face years of expansion that will need the direction of this type of mature management.

Electricity in 1940—It is estimated that by 1940 electric output will increase 85%; gross revenues from light and power, 59%. Television, railroad electrification, air conditioning and the electron tube are among fields for expansion. Some believe the electric utilities will be the next major industry to lead America through a new cycle of prosperity.

Gas for heating—Development of gas for heating promises further accomplishment for this industry that produced more gas during the past decade than during the preceding century. Heating homes, heating water, and new uses for industrial heating offer outstanding growth possibilities. Research projects under way include utilization of gas for cooling homes and buildings in summer.

The Associated System, which serves 1,432,108 customers in 3,117 communities, is prepared by policies of long-term management to participate in the years of growth ahead.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 86

Jason's excitement was at the high pitch. Instinctively he grabbed at the thing falling upon him. At first he thought it was a Horib who had discovered their plan for escape. So he clung desperately and pulled with all his might. To his astonishment he found he grasped the powerful muscles of a man's legs. Nevertheless he was determined to drag the creature into the hole, whoever he was. Then slowly but surely he felt himself being lifted upward.

As the earth gave way under Tarzan and he felt something in the hole beneath grab his legs he was buried almost to his armpits. But he had regained his rifle which had fallen nearly in a horizontal position. As the ape-man was dragged slowly inward, the rifle's muzzle and butt lodged upon opposite sides of the aperture, forming a rigid bar across the hole's opening. And as he clung to it, steadily Tarzan's steel biceps tensed and he slowly drew himself upward.

Jason strained and struggled frantically but he could not overcome the steady pull that was lifting him toward the surface of the ground. He knew now the creature to which he clung was no Horib for his grasp was not upon fishlike scales but the smooth, firm flesh of a human being. Suddenly he was knocked backward by a powerful blow in his stomach which forced him to let go his hold. When he came to, only the blue sky, seen through the tunnel's exit, was above him.

The Horib had witnessed Tarzan's mysterious sinking into the ground. Waiting not to investigate the miracle, he seized Jana and dragged her away with him. The two were just disappearing among the trees as Tarzan, emerging from the shaft, caught sight of them. A growl like an enraged beast's came from his lips as he realized his sinking into the hole might keep him from rescuing Jana. Then it was he gave the violent kick that sent Jason Gridley sprawling.

COMPANION IS SOUGHT IN PARTY GIRL'S DEATH

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Death by strangulation of Catherine Cronin, 20, insurance company clerk, tonight sent police of upstate New York and New Jersey in search for Jack Harrigan, 24, her chauffeur companion on an all-night drinking party.

Physicians said the girl had been criminally attacked but there were no marks or bruises on her neck. A punctured larynx, they said, probably was due to heavy breathing.

Her body was found in an apartment occupied by Harrigan's mother, Mrs. Bridget Harrigan, near the Bohemian "village." His brother, Patrick, 22, told police he found the body when he returned home at 8 a. m.

While Patrick went in search of a policeman, Mrs. Harrigan said Jack, dressed and left, saying, "I'm going to get out of town."

The drinking party, police learned, ended about 5 a. m., when Harrigan, in which the participants were riding crashed into a fire hydrant on Broadway. The girls' sister, Blanche, 23, was in the group which also included Harrigan, Frederick de Javannes, the taxi driver, and two other men.

They said Catherine left the scene of the accident with Harrigan while the rest returned to their homes.

DECREASE SHOWN IN STOCK VALUES

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Fifty representative stocks traded on the Chicago Stock Exchange during last week had a market value of $1,860,627.151 at the close of business Friday, as compared with $1,915,051.802 at the close of the preceding week, according to a compilation by Paul H.
